

ASSURED KNOX WAS NOT TO ARBITRATE CAUSE FOR REBUFF

COLOMBIAN MINISTER BELIEVES GOVERNMENT WILL SANCTION ACTION REGARDING KNOX'S VISIT.

EXPECT SETTLEMENT

Hailed Secretary of State as Ambassador to Settle Long-Standing Panama Dispute But Was Disappointed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Feb. 19.—Profound disappointment on receiving information in Colombia that Secretary Knox did not contemplate visiting Colombia any more than the ultimate arbitration of her claims against the United States was generally ascribed today as the reason for the expression from Senator Mel Orpin, the Colombian minister last night, that a visit by Mr. Knox to his country at the present time would be "impossible."

"It was said today that when Senator Mel Orpin first read the White House announcement a week ago stating that the President was directing the secretary of state to visit the countries bordering on the Caribbean Sea, he hailed it with unfeigned enthusiasm."

In a statement as comment on the Knox trip, prepared at that time but not made public until today, the Colombian minister foresaw a possible recognition by the United States of the demands of Colombia for arbitration of the difference growing out of the partition of Panama, and the opposition by this government of the Canal Zone strip.

"If Mr. Knox, as I sincerely hope," wrote Senator Mel Orpin at the time "is now fully cognizant of the thought and the claims of Colombia I have no doubt but that his visit to my country will be fruitful for he will find that the popular feeling which at the present time prevails there as in most all South American countries was mainly caused by the manner in which that traditional ally of the United States, Colombia, was treated in 1903 and 1904 in connection with the sovereignty of Panama and by there having been no fair and equitable settlement of Colombia's claims growing out of that conduct."

"All good Colombians are heartily desirous that such feeling there as elsewhere in South America be appeased, the sooner the better, it is never too late to do right."

Work for Friendship. "Colombia does not ask that the contentions be accepted at her assertion. She has simply demanded for the last eight years that her claims be arbitrated so that whenever the result of the arbitration may result in confidence and a sincere friendship with the developments of increasing commercial relations with the United States and I cannot but hope that Mr. Knox who with President Taft is one of the foremost champions of general international arbitration will take advantage of his trip to Colombia to show the world his sincerity either there or here by facilitating the opening of the door to a satisfactory settlement of those claims by an arbitration honorable to both governments and profitable to both countries."

Awaits Instructions. Senator Mel Orpin smiled when he was reminded of that comment today. "The situation has changed, it is different now." During the week it was reported that Secretary Knox was not bound on a mission of pacification to Colombia on account of American troubles. So Senator Mel Orpin who on Nov. 1st presented a third request from his government for arbitration and to which no reply had come the expected benefit of Knox's trip vanished.

His letter to acting Secretary Huntington Wilson of that department expressed his personal views that Mr. Knox's trip would be followed as a consequence, Senator Mel Orpin in that letter emphasized that he was speaking on his own behalf and without instructions from his government. It is said that Senator Orpin came here on May 1st last with a definite idea of the position of his government in the dispute of eight years standing and the attitude he was to assume here. Senator Orpin declared in his letter to Mr. Wilson that he had asked his government to mail him instructions. "This he explained would be a matter of twelve days at least. Senator Orpin apparently is confident that his government will, reiterate that Mr. Knox's visit would be 'impossible.'"

No Change Made. No change was made today in the itinerary of Secretary of State Knox's trip to Central America because of the Colombian minister's letter of protest. "The department will await word before from the Bogota government before altering its plans."

Some intimation either diplomatically confirming or repudiating is expected within the next twenty-four hours. No action of any kind in the matter is possible before tomorrow.

"We had one of the 'tappers' in Orin McManis's cell," said Attorney Fredericks, "and it worked beautifully."

Five workmen, employees of the building contractor, were all that are known to have been in the building at the time. Four of these were taken out and sent to a hospital where it is reported they will recover. The body of the dead man has not been recovered.

BRITISH SUFFRAGE FIGHT NEAR CLIMAX IS THE REPORT

Present Week Promises to Bring Campaign to Crucial Point—Bill May Come Before Parliament.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] London, Feb. 19.—The present week promises to bring the women's suffrage campaign to a critical point and it is even within the range of possibility that the question will reach its climax by being brought squarely before parliament. In anticipation of the impending submission to the House of Commons of a women's suffrage bill the advocates of woman's suffrage and the opponents of woman's enfranchisement have made fair play for a last, tremendous effort. On Friday a big meeting will be held at Albert Hall under the auspices of the National Union of Women Suffrage Societies, and Mr. Lloyd George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, will be the principal speaker. The last gun of the anti-suffragists will be fired on Wednesday of next week, when a meeting under the auspices of the National League for Opposing Woman Suffrage will be held at Albert Hall. Lord Cromer, Lord Curzon, Mr. Marconi and a number of prominent Unionists will be among the speakers.

The women's suffrage question was not a matter of national political importance in its early stages, but it gained enormously in importance when Chancellor Lloyd George openly espoused the cause of "votes for women." Never before had a high government official in England championed the cause, until Mr. Lloyd George entered the field, ready to fight for the franchise principle and to carry the contest directly before the House of Commons. The fact that he and the Prime Minister, Mr. Asquith, are on opposing sides on this important issue, makes the situation even more acute and there are many who believe that the women's franchise issue will cause a split not only in the cabinet but in the Liberal party and may, eventually, precipitate a national crisis in the political situation.

A sharp line of demarcation divides the entire cabinet into two hostile camps. While the "anti's," led by Premier Asquith, have a majority of holders of portfolios on their side, their number numbers only two, so far as is known the "anti's" also have a considerable majority in Parliament and, unless some unforeseen complication should arise, there is but little probability that the House of Commons will, at this time, accept the principle of woman's franchise. The suffrage sympathizers hope, however, to create so much sentiment for "votes for women" that the proposition will be sure of acceptance in the next Parliament.

The differences over the suffrage question have caused a considerable strain of the relations between Premier Asquith and Chancellor Lloyd George and it is generally believed that a complete rupture between them is merely a matter of time. It is difficult to see how disaster to the Liberal party can be averted under these conditions.

Mr. Lloyd George intends to bring the suffrage matter before the commons in the form of an amendment to the reform bill. The ingenious device by which, under cover of the plea that the matter is a non-party one, the House of Commons to accept the proposition without government responsibility, will probably add to the acrimony of the debates on the floor of the House. The battle promises to be extremely spectacular and will attract intense interest throughout the country.

STOPPED EXPLOSIONS DURING CONVENTION

Government Prepared To Show Original Resolution of Iron Workers Delaying Explosions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Indianapolis, Feb. 19.—To support its contention that many of the officials, national and local, of the International association of bridge and structural iron workers were implicated in the dynamiting conspiracy against "open shop" employees, the government is prepared to submit as evidence the original copy of a resolution alleged to have been introduced at the iron workers' national convention at Rochester, N. Y., in 1910, providing that no explosions should take place during the convention. When a photograph of the document was shown to the convention, the resolution was an important piece of evidence in the government's case but he would not say what action was taken on the resolution by the convention, or through whose hands the manuscript had passed. "The resolution reads: 'Resolved that no more bombs or explosives of any kind be exploded while this convention is in session.'"

WOMEN STRIKERS IN FIGHT WITH POLICE AT LAWRENCE MILLS

Crowd of Polish Women Resist Militia And Police—Stationary Firemen Threaten Strike.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 19.—A band of Polish women operatives who are participating in the great textile strike assembled near St. Anthony's Syrian church early today and defied police and militia authorities to disperse them. The women numbered about a dozen and were engaged in picketing the vicinity of the mills. They did not disperse until a squad of about 30 police officers, a small detachment of infantry, and a troop of cavalry were sent to the scene. Three of the women were arrested charged with disorderly conduct.

At some of the mills large increases in the number resuming work today was claimed but there seemed to be little change at the plants of the American Woolen Company.

Rumor was persistent this morning that the stationary firemen proposed to strike late this afternoon or tomorrow. This would seriously cripple several mills.

SENATOR'S BROTHER STRONG FOR WILSON

William T. La Follette Gives Ardent Speech for New Jersey Candidate at Recent Conference.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Feb. 19.—Woodrow Wilson had an effective champion for the presidential nomination here Saturday in William T. La Follette, brother of the Wisconsin senator who is himself a presidential aspirant on the republican ticket. Called upon for a speech at the Third district Wisconsin conference, he said:

"My first reason for supporting Gov. Wilson is that I find that practically all the great, so-called trusts are opposing his nomination. They have brought this country into a condition where the courts are prosecuting, or attempting to prosecute these combinations from one end of the country to the other. We want a man for president who will choose for his attorney general some lawyer who will successfully prosecute, and not make a farce out of an anti-trust program."

The conference selected E. C. Moller, Mineral Point, and John A. Maynard, Madison, as its choice for delegates to the Baltimore convention, and A. G. Nothe, Highland, and Michael O'Brien, Shullsburg, as alternates. Attorneys Harry Santhoff and John Moran, and Sheriff Andrew S. Brown, all of Madison, were named as delegates to the Wilson state conference next Wednesday.

CHAMP CLARK'S CAMPAIGN IS OPENED IN STATE.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Feb. 19.—The Champ Clark campaign bureau at Washington, is sending circular letters containing a facsimile of the famous Jolene letter written by Woodrow Wilson in 1907. Copies of the letter have been received by Madison voters. In a not appended to the facsimile letter, the statement continues:

"'Knock Mr. Bryan into a cocked hat.' Indeed! And by whom. A school teacher? God forbid! The democrats of the west and south have always been intensely loyal to Mr. Bryan. They have, by choice, stood for what he stood for, and if Mr. Bryan deserves to be 'knocked into a cocked hat,' according to Mr. Wilson, then the democracy of the south and west deserve the same treatment; in fact, while Mr. Wilson is about it, he might knock the 6,500,000 democrats that voted for Mr. Bryan into a cocked hat. Upon what does our Caesar Wilson feel that he has grown so great as to sit in judgment over 6,500,000 democrats who voted for and believe in what Mr. Bryan advocates? Is it the 'hand-out' that Mr. Wilson asked Mr. Carnegie for in the shape of money that many people consider 'bribe,' or is it his all-consuming vanity and egotism?"

"What a wonderful lesson is being taught by that still more wonderful play at the Savoy," wrote the critic of Club Life during the run of "The Servant in the House" in New York. "Daring indeed is Mr. Kennedy, but how true to life it is. 'God grant leading-let us give as little and get as much as we can,' just seems to fit the average man, whether he be a clergyman or business man. And looking over the well-filled audience that filled the Savoy, I fancy it must have gone as straight as an arrow to at least one-half of the men there. It was, however, a bit rough on the bishop to be exposed and before one of the people, too. It is as perfect a performance as one can ever hope to see; a play that requires intelligent people to interpret it. It is life—real life—we all live it if we but stop to think a bit. How we walk over the bodies and bones of our fellow beings to gain for ourselves what we most desire, but we do not stop to think, least conscience creep in and make us a bit uncomfortable. There is about the finest bit of acting in this play that New York has ever seen or may hope to see."

"The Servant in the House" with the original New York production and a wonderful company of players, headed by Hugo B. Koch, will be the offering at the Myers theatre on Tuesday, March 12. Everyone in Janesville and the surrounding cities should avail themselves of this opportunity to see what is conceded to be the greatest modern play.

"EXCUSE ME."
A rich treat is in store for theatre-goers when Henry W. Savage's Co. will appear at Myers Theatre Friday evening February 23, in "Excuse Me."

Rupert Hughes, author of "Excuse Me," the Pullman carnival in three sections, which has been called the fastest farce of years, wrote his first play when he was nine years old, and started writing ever since then. He has been writing ever since then, and now that "Excuse Me" has made him a rich man he can be excused for letting outsiders into the secret of playwrighting. There may be some misguided people who think that writing comes from an inspiration, and that the playwright works himself into a fine frenzy when he is bringing forth a new play. Not so, according to Rupert Hughes. "No one who knows thinks that the professional writer works from inspirations," says Hughes. "Instead of that he works like a dog and sweats blood over a pile of paper."

The history of Mr. Hughes' career as a playwright is almost as dramatic as one of his plays. "I had repeated failures for years," he confesses, "and suddenly success came like a bolt of lightning out of the blue. It was when 'Excuse Me' turned people away at the second performance in New York and generally began to break records that people came to me and said, 'You're a rich man.'"

"The second night of a play is generally a big thing. On the second night of 'Excuse Me' Mrs. Hughes and I went down to the Gaiety Theatre.

I said at the box office, just as I had done with my other plays. 'Just put us anywhere in the house.' 'Anywhere?' said the treasurer. 'Why Mr. Hughes, we have turned away 150 people already.' 'I know then that 'Excuse Me' was a success."

Mr. Hughes' first play was "Little by Little," and he elected to star himself in it, and was aided by a cast picked from the neighborhood he lived in. It was a highly moral drama, showing how the theft of a pin ultimately caused a boy to become a great criminal. His brother helped in the undertaking and the play earned eighty cents on the first night. Mr. Hughes' oldest brother kept all the receipts except fifty cents, and the three were fifteen quites to pay, the division did not seem quite fair. The oldest brother left the company because he interpreted a line.

Lyman H. Howe.

In this busy world of ours most of us do not have the time to read exhaustive descriptions in newspapers and books of all the history-making events that are now taking place. In such, Lyman H. Howe's Travel Theatre, March 23 and 27, matinee on 27, is a welcome change from the usual dramatic offering. In a brief two hours it unfolds more of this big, exciting world of ours than one could see in several months of actual travel.

Among the many subjects in the new program is one which shows in perfect photography the hazardous and difficult task of reaching the highest peaks of the Alps. Despite a heavy snowstorm the daring photographer with three guides reached the summit while taking snapshots of each dangerous step. The ascent starts with a perpendicular trip in a car of the Cog Wheel Railway of Montreux. The spectators obtain remarkable bird's-eye view of the Rhone Valley and the Matterhorn. Suspended by means of which the climbers were transferred from one Alpine peak to another. The camera is then taken into the regions of snow where there are fearless guides over yon, finally an altitude is attained from which one gazes down upon a vast rolling sea of clouds.

The prestige attained by Mr. Howe's exhibition was officially recognized recently in a very complimentary way by the U. S. Government. One of the objects of the great Naval Review in New York Harbor last November was to arouse greater pride and patriotism in our "new navy." Believing that this should not be confined only to actual spectators of the Review, the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. George von L. Meyer, was anxious that the country at large should benefit by the demonstration. He became convinced that no one uses the power that lies in animated photography to such great advantage as does Mr. Howe. Acting on this conviction, he granted Mr. Howe's camera men the very exclusive privilege of accompanying him on the U. S. S. Dolphin so that the three million "Howe travellers" throughout America might see the greatest naval review in American history at even closer range than the spectators that lined the banks or crowded excursion boats. The intimate scenes obtained from the deck of the Dolphin as the ship steamed past miles and miles of the very flower of the U. S. Navy on the tour of inspection, furnished a lesson of the efficiency of men, guns and machinery of our mighty war vessels that is of incalculable value. The combined power of the ships represented gives the beholder a fresh, vivid and entirely new conception of our country's resources and power. The ships, in their holiday dress, present a scene that is profoundly impressive, and this is further intensified at the thrilling climax when the stately procession moves at full speed out to sea in a driving gale and at the same time salutes directly in front of Mr. Howe's cameras.

A pictorial tour through Italy, the land of history and romance; the wonders of the Grand River Canon, Colorado; the latest mode of locomotion through water and air by means of the hydroplane, and the newest fashions from Paris are only a few of the many other features of interest to be presented.

Lights on Baby Carriage.

"I was puzzled the other night by two lights which kept approaching me on the sidewalk," said a wayfarer. "I finally made out that they were on a baby carriage. It struck me as a pretty good idea, for the lights didn't seem to bother the baby at all and they certainly kept people from running into the carriage in the dark. The lanterns were made like small carriage lamps and were fastened in sockets."

Found.

An English paper has stumbled upon the missing word. Newspaper writers never know precisely how to designate the lady who takes the chair at federations and other meetings, but by a misprint, the needed word is born! It is "Chairman." Mrs. Chairman, if you please!

Good Word for the Widows.

When a man is left with a lot of motherless children on his hands, he usually scatters them among his relatives. If it is the woman who is left with fatherless little ones, who keeps them together and earns a living besides. Women develop great energy when left without a man. In fact, all the widows we know are getting along a great deal better than the married women.—Atchison Globe.

Justice and Courtesy.

My craving to be just has prevented me from being obliging. I am too much impressed with the idea that in doing one person a service you as a rule disoblige another person; that to further the chances of one competitor is very often equivalent to an injury upon another.—Ernest Renan.

J. C. COURTNEY RECOVERING FROM CHRONIC AFFECTION OF BRONCHITIS BY UNITED DOCTORS' TREATMENT.

Mr. J. C. Courtney has been one of the thousands who have suffered for years with that annoying, persistent and distressing disease termed bronchitis, without any relief though doctoring constantly.

The effects of bronchitis is well known to nearly everyone and those who suffer from its effects learn that it gradually ruins the system and causes constant misery.

Mr. Courtney has learned by experience the persistency of this disease for he has treated for this ailment twelve long years without obtaining relief or aid, until within the last six weeks.

Six weeks ago Mr. Courtney called upon the United Doctors who have their Janesville Institute in the Hyman Bldg., corner of Milwaukee and Main streets, and started treatment with these specialists and the remarkable new system of treatment as used by them.

Mr. Courtney is a Fireman, Ill., gentleman and well known. In stating the result of his treatment by the United Doctors he said: "After twelve long years of treating with physicians for bronchitis without receiving any relief I went six weeks ago to the United Doctors and started treatment with them. I must say I am getting well very fast and am growing stronger each week. I have no objections to this being made public for I think others who have been treated in vain would be glad to know they can be relieved of their suffering by going to the United Doctors."

Rewards of Great Living.

The rewards of great living are not external things, withheld until the crowning hour of success arrives; they come by the way—in the consciousness of growing power and worth, of duties nobly met and work thoroughly done. Joy and peace are by the way.—Hamilton W. Maile.

The area of low atmospheric pressure that occupied the Canadian Northwest the greater part of last week has now moved eastward to the Lake region and will pass rapidly down the St. Lawrence valley. This movement has brought a change to fair weather with somewhat lower temperatures throughout the Central states and the northern plains.

The pressure continues low in the Southwest, and there has been more or less cloudiness and light scattered snowfalls in the Rock Mountains and southern Plains as a result.

An area of high atmospheric pressure is approaching the north Pacific coast from the west and will probably bring fair weather and still lower temperatures, especially in the far west.

For this vicinity the indications are that the weather will be fair and cooler.

TO PROSPECTIVE CANDIDATES.

The coming primary election is likely to put in the field a large number of candidates, as any man has a right to aspire to the office of either mayor or commissioner, who feels so inclined. It will be necessary for these men to get before the people, and for their information and convenience the Gazette publishes the following brief form of announcement which occupies about one inch of space. The charge for inserting this notice is 25 cents each issue, cash with order. No account will be opened with candidates.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for.....at the coming primary election, and solicit the support of the voters.

(Signed).....

The Gazette has no names to suggest, and will support no man for office before the primary election.

THE JOURNAL'S NEWS STORY.

The change of sentiment from the ultra idea of "anything to beat Taft" to "anything to beat Roosevelt," that the press which have supported Senator La Follette is more remarkable. The following is taken from the news columns of the Milwaukee Journal from their Washington correspondent and of course it needs the approval of the editorial policy of that paper.

It gives the view of the La Follette progressives to a "T" and will doubtless be read with interest as it shows that it was the man, not the cause, that held the La Follette men together.

"President Taft will be re-nominated and will be stronger at the polls than Roosevelt would be."

"This is not a mere prediction. It is the judgment of men who think they know and whom other men credit with knowing. While progressive republican leaders talk Roosevelt, yet in the hearts of many of them there is extreme bitterness toward him. They condemn him as no public man of our time has been condemned. They even blame him for his treatment of Taft. They say he plotted in secret against the president. They see now that they should not have trusted him, as he would not openly ally himself with them, though he pretended to be of and with them. He advised strongly that La Follette be put forward as leader, and, when La Follette got something to lead, he betrayed the Wisconsin senator by attempting to turn the movement to himself."

"Had Roosevelt lived up to his pretension, La Follette would today be a tremendous factor in the presidential situation. An open fight by Roosevelt for the Wisconsin man at any time during the last few weeks would have made the outcome at Chicago at least doubtful."

"At the critical moment the colonel kept still, and La Follette was put out of the way, while Teddy hoped La Follette and the other progressives had made Taft impossible. From the start the whole Oyster Bay plan has been in one way or another to clear the path for the lion hunter. That is a monstrous thought to entertain in connection with a man who has occupied the White House, yet

It is entertained by progressive republican leaders.

"It is then no wonder that there is so much hesitation about accepting Roosevelt. What could be expected of a president who had won his nomination by such methods? Most progressives do not say more than that they are taking Roosevelt on trust. What trust can be put in such a man? In the Roosevelt administration, outside of much talk, there was little that was genuinely progressive."

"Some say it would be better to abandon the whole progressive republican movement now than to commit it to the fate which awaits it if Roosevelt is made president through it. For it to become the plaything of Big Business, which would be welcome at the White House because of personal and political friendship, would be to consign it to a dishonorable grave."

"La Follette alone stands between the progressive republican movement and dishonor. It is the feeling of the best men in it, is he well enough to stand up under such a heavy responsibility?"

ATTACKS UNIVERSITY.

Despite the efforts of the University press bureau and their subsidized press, to explain away all the attacks that have been made upon the state institution by Superintendent of Public Instruction Cary, they have failed utterly to disprove the charges made by that gentleman which are most serious.

As an aid to Mr. Cary now appears Attorney General Levi Hancock. In a talk at Menasha last evening, those who heard Mr. Hancock speak before the Twilight club some months ago will remember he does not mince matters and his "Mail Mail" epithet has gone the rounds of the press the country over. While not as strong in his Menasha address, he said some good things which support Mr. Cary's point of view exactly. According to press reports his address is summarized as follows:

"Attorney General Levi H. Hancock, in an address Sunday night, declared 'we have hell in our legislative halls and hell in our university.'"

"The occasion was the annual banquet of the Menasha club, at which the attorney general was listed as chief speaker. All sentiment that Hancock directed against the 'demagogues' were heartily applauded. 'For almost half an hour Mr. Hancock discussed the University of Wisconsin, and declared the attacks of Sup't. of Schools Cary were if anything too weak.' He took up the several charges directed against the administration of the state schools and dwelt on them in detail. Lastly and inefficiently as well as 'highbrow' methods were the chief defects cited. 'He stated that no social demagogues were notorious, that they sought notoriety to advance their radical and 'half-breed' ideas. 'Speaking of the recall, referendum and initiative, Mr. Hancock said: 'In the time of Athens the demagogues advanced this theory and solely to be disturbers. Now we have so-called progressives who have imitated the sentiments and even the motives of the ancients. It is absurd that this may be called progressive. 'The primary election law is superfluous. As for woman suffrage and the commission form of government, both are as ludicrous as anything is possible to be. 'The state railroad and tax commissions have in the last few years spent thousands of dollars and what have they attained? Not one cent. Rather, they have decreased the public utility of these state departments at least 40 per cent. I can produce members of these several commissions who will make affidavit to this statement. 'Beware of the fool! Now he is the man of socialistic temper who flaunts himself in the public places as the Pharisee and stands as the representative of opposition to constitutional government."

Chicago hung four murderers on Friday last and then permitted the morbid public to view the remains of the dead. It was a terrible spectacle and one worthy of the days when the murderers were hung, drawn and quartered and buried at a crossroads than the present day and age.

Taft's friends from throughout the state are in Milwaukee today to talk over his candidacy and the chances of lining up the Wisconsin delegation to vote for him at the coming national convention.

General Pershing has captured a sacred mount in the Philippines. When old glory was raised over it it became more sacred than ever.

More commissioner candidates are wanted so as to make the choice a wide one. There is yet time for good men to appear in the field.

America has considerable respect for its railroad magnates but it wishes some way might be found to eliminate the wrecks.

YOUR SURPLUS.

In the advertised statements of a bank you will read something like this: Capital and undivided profits.....$100,000 Surplus and undivided profits.....$2,000

Which means, of course, that in addition to the paid capital employed in the business the bank has earned a surplus fund available for use that serves as a sort of insurance.

Surplus is earned capital. Carried as surplus it is really capital and increases by so much the resources of the bank.

Every person, like the bank, should carry a considerable surplus. In addition to his working capital, which includes his physical, mental and moral resources, he should accumulate a fund of surplus energy.

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla.

There will come a time of stress when all the powers of body, mind and spirit will be taxed to the utmost and he must perform draw on his surplus fund.

A panic tests the bank. And so the emergency tests the man. If the resources of the bank are available it will weather the financial storm. If, when trials, difficulties, temptations, come to the man he is strong in body, mind and soul there is a surplus for the crisis he will come through.

But— If his body is flabby because of lack of exercise, by overindulgence or loss of sleep or dissipation; if his mind is weakened by fear or worry; if his moral sense is dulled, why, then— He must draw on his depleted capital.

And that sort of thing with bank or with man is the beginning of the end. Lay up a surplus.

Keep the body in fine trim and full of good blood, keep the mind keen and sharp and serviceable, keep the soul untainted, and when the work doubles and the strain comes one may go at his hard task with enthusiasm.

Watch your surplus. Do not let it become depleted. As the bank is careful to carry a cash reserve, so should you keep your strength reserve.

ON THE PURSUIT OF THE MOMENT.

GRANDPAPA'S ADVICE. Hear an old man, Bill, who has long journeyed Through the deep jungle that we call life; Who, with grim trouble, often has journeyed; Whose heart is seared with wounds of the strife; Youth and ambition don't like confession: They can't reach any goal that they see. But every one must hark to life's lesson: Take it from me, Bill, take it from me.

Nations have grown, Bill, nations have perished, Ages have come, Bill, have fled, Leaving behind everything that they cherished. Going to join the ranks of the dead, Monarchs have risen in militant glory, Sweeping their fumes from land and sea; But the same "Fins" marks every life story. Take it from me, Bill, take it from me.

We can't all win the top rung of the ladder; Maybe 'tain't what were cut out to do. That ain't no sign we can't make the world gladder. Just with our own little stunts, me and you. All can't be fielded old Fins be contented; Some must be humble, you will agree; Just do your damndest and you'll die contented. Take it from me, Bill, take it from me.

REVISED FOR NEXT FALL. An effort was made to revise the football rules so that the game would be less brutal and so that the list of sorrowing papas and mamma could be reduced. The revision, like that of the tariff, was not entirely satisfactory and we have gotten up a list of rules, which, adhered to, should greatly diminish the undertakers. Following are some of our rules:

When you get an opposing player down on the ten-yard line with his nose tearing up the ground in a correct imitation of a dice throw, do not jump on him with both feet, but gently kick him in the face with one foot. This makes the play more open.

When you get a player by the leg swinging him around in the air only five times instead of ten times before you throw him across the field. He may not go quite as far, but he will land almost as hard and will be out of the game permanently.

It shall not be considered irregular to bite off a man's ear excepting when the goal line is threatened.

No firearms or gloves with horse-shoes in them shall be allowed to be used. Knockout drops are also strictly tabooed.

No more than nine men will be allowed to dance on a man when he is down whorled eleven and the referee have been the limit heretofore.

When a man has two legs, two arms and seven ribs broken he shall be considered as entitled to be retired from the game and shall not be forced to continue to play.

AND THE DID. "Well," sighed the author solemnly, as he gazed into his sweetheart's eyes, "we are here today and gone tomorrow."

"That is generally true," broke in a deep bass paternal voice from the staircase above, "but you are going tonight."

ANOTHER UPRIGHT JUDGE. The attorney had pleaded earnestly for the young married woman who had been arrested for speeding her automobile at the rate of forty miles an hour through the business streets, but he could make no visible impression upon the court.

"Have you anything to say before sentence is passed upon you?" asked the judge to the fair prisoner.

"Well, you see, it was this way, your honor," she replied. "I had just bought a $40 hat down town and I was trying to get it home before it went out of style."

"That will do," said the court, "the case is dismissed—for your husband's sake, if nothing else."

SEEKS INFORMATION ABOUT RECENT FIRE

Taxpayer Would Like Investigation of Bassett and Echlin Conflagration.

In the following communication from a reputable citizen relative to the action of the fire department at the fire which a week ago destroyed the Bassett and Echlin factory, several pertinent questions are asked. It is probable the council will ask questions at tonight's session, but it is not probable that any satisfaction will be obtained. If any citizen is anxious to bring the matter into prominence the easiest way to do it is to prefer charges with the fire and police commission and demand an examination by that body. Otherwise the matter will doubtless drop despite all the adverse talk on the subject. The following is the communication:

Editor Gazette:—
The destruction of the Bassett and Echlin factory removes from our city one of our manufacturing institutions. But only the ruins of this once busy plant remain, it seems consistent to call to the attention of our citizens some considerations respecting the efficiency of the fire department, concerning this particular loss. There seems to be much anxiety on the part of those whose future safety is dependent upon the fire department and the following inquiries are most commonly made:

"Was everything done that could have been done to save this plant from destruction?"
"Was ordinary judgment used in fighting this fire at the very beginning?"
"Should the expensive fire engine have been put to use or left in the fire shed as it was?"

"Is it not the duty of the chief of the fire department or at least some member of the department to know whether the fire hydrants are open or frozen?"

"When a fire occurs in a large building, in one place somewhere inside of it, is it not the duty of the fire department to enter that building and throw water or chemicals onto the fire instead of on the outside of the building?"

It seems to be the common conviction of every business man who was present and saw the beginning of the fire in question, that this factory could have been saved had ordinary common sense in fighting the fire in it been used. It is a matter of almost universal surprise that the building, although it was saved, had there been a wind on this occasion, it was the opinion of everybody present that the heart of Janesville would have been burned out. On this night there were present five hundred business men of the city, anyone of whom would have risked his health to assist in putting out the fire had he been permitted, and could have held the nozzles with at least as much skill as they were held on this evening and the paid fire department of the city could have been used to run the fire engine. The building being next to the river, the fire department will have few opportunities for testing its fire engine as it had on this night.

As to the fire hydrant being frozen, it may be said that it is certainly the duty of the fire department to see that the hydrants are open, at least in the very central part of the city and within the fire limits. This is particularly true in view of the fact that this department is not so overburdened with work, but what this matter can be easily attended to.

It seems as though the people of this city are almost wholly convinced that the inefficiency of our fire department is the cause of this tremendous loss and that it is high time that the proper authorities institute an investigation for the purpose of discovering whether there is not considerable room for improvement in our fire service.

UGLY SCALP WOUND FROM FALL ON WALK

Mrs. John Huschka Severely Injured This Morning in Front of Her Home, 309 South Pearl Street.

While returning from the funeral of Miss Isabella Hunter, a neighbor, this morning, Mrs. John Huschka fell on the slippery cement walk in front of her home, 309 South Pearl street, and sustained an ugly scalp wound in the back of head which rendered her unconscious for some time and led to considerable loss of blood. Men who were within a block of the house saw her fall and came to her assistance. Dr. Wayne A. Munn was called and gave her the attention she required. He found that her injuries were confined to the scalp and that no fracture of the skull had taken place. At the point where Mrs. Huschka fell the walk had been cleaned of snow, but being below the street grade water had run in and frozen upon it.

FIRE AGAIN BREAKS OUT IN BASSETT & ECHLIN RUINS

Department Was Called Out Early Last Evening to Extinguish Blaze.

Although smoke had ceased to rise from the ruins of the Bassett and Echlin factory, destroyed by fire a week ago, flames broke out in the corner near the Court street bridge early last evening and a telephone call from one who observed them brought the fire department to the scene. A line of hose was laid and water played upon the fire for half an hour before the flames subsided themselves that the fire was out.

Common Council Meeting: The Common Council will meet in regular session at the city hall this evening. The number and amount of bills to be presented is the smallest in a long time. City Treasurer James Fathens will present his regular report and a hearing will be given on the North Main street paving assessments.

For some time past the city power house of the Electric company has been obliged to use some steam power in carrying its day load, but enough water is now available to make that unnecessary.

The Presbyterian Sunday School will have an entertainment at the church tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock. At the close of the program light refreshments will be served. All the members and friends of the school are invited to be present.

Paid State Tax: County Treasurer Church forwarded this afternoon the amount of the state tax for Rock county to State Treasurer A. H. Dahl at Madison. The total sum for the county was $115,168.21.

SHIPMENT OF GIRDERS FOR FOURTH AVENUE BRIDGE HERE.

Will be Ready to Start Work on Superstructure Within Short Time—But Two More Tubes to Sink.

Three car-loads of girders for the superstructure of the new Fourth Avenue bridge have arrived in this city, one of which has been unloaded at the approach on the west bank. As there are but two more tubes to sink it will be but a short time before the crew can start putting the girders in place. The heavier ones which will be placed on the north side of the bridge weigh about twelve tons heavier because for that side are made heavier to take the weight of the cement sidewalk in addition to the other load imposed on them. The workmen are now sinking a tube but will have to stop work there temporarily to unload the material on the cars.

A regular meeting of the W. H. Sargent W. R. C. No. 21 will be held Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 20. Social after the meeting.

ACTION TO ENFORCE PROVISION OF WILL

John Gough in Case Against Eva V. Muser Would Enforce Will of Jane E. Moore, Deceased.

Testimony was taken in the case of John Gough vs. Eva V. Muser before Judge Grimm in the circuit court this afternoon. The case was brought by the plaintiff who is the husband of the deceased daughter of Jane E. Moore, also deceased several years ago at her home in the town of Spring Valley, to enforce the original will of Mrs. Moore on the ground that he had complied with the provisions of the first will.

According to the testimony taken Mrs. Moore has bequeathed by her first testament, two-thirds of her property to her daughter, Jane Gough, provided that her daughter take care of her during her declining years, and the other third was bequeathed to her daughter, Eva V. Muser. On the death of Jane Gough before the passing of Mrs. Moore, the latter made a second will in favor of her daughter, Mrs. Eva Muser, the one third of the estate going to a grandson. This will was subsequently probated in the county court. Mr. Gough alleges that he and his wife had begun the work of the requirements of the first will and were entitled to the property. The will was contested at the time of the hearing before the probate court. The present action, however, is not an appeal, but an original case. Elmer McGowan was attorney for the plaintiff and Durr Sprague of Broadhead, for the defendant. All the parties reside in Spring Valley.

Fasting Regulations Announced From Pulpits Sunday Are Clear And Explicit.
Rules for fasting during Lent were announced at all Catholic churches on Sunday. While not as severe as those in past years, the points regarding fasting and abstinence are clear and unavoidable.

On Wednesdays and Saturdays, and naturally on Fridays, those who assert membership in the church must refrain from the use of meats or other foods of like nature.

To many this abstinence means self-denial and that is just why the rules were formulated. The purpose of Lent is to cause Christians to deny themselves pleasures of the world that they may feel Lent really means something.

In the rules it is ordered that instead of flesh foods, the use of fish and other sea foods be adopted. Fish contains as much nutriment as flesh foods it is asserted. Many do not know of this, and feel that abstinence from use of meats is a hardship.

There are a few exceptions made in the orders so that persons who labor at hard work and believe meat essential may use it.

"We should give up something during Lent so as to make the observance of it worthy," said one pastor. "Although fasting and abstinence may seem like a hardship, we should observe them so that we can really feel joyful on Easter Sunday, the end of Lent."

KEEP INSURANCE IN FRATERNAL SOCIETY

This is Advice of State Insurance Commissioner Ekern in Regard to New Woodman Rate.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 10.—"Don't drop your fraternal insurance," is the advice of Commissioner H. L. Ekern in a statement today. Ekern says that the new Woodman rate, which he calls the lowest possible in Wisconsin, Mr. Ekern said:

"Fraternal societies generally have come to recognize that their business must be conducted on a sound basis. This means a rating for nearly every society, and members who do not fully understand the situation are often inclined to complain of increases in their rates. They should understand that with a rating on a sound basis they have a much more valuable insurance than before. The man who has no family or dependents, and does not expect to have any, is the only one who can afford to drop his insurance. If the rate is high the older men especially find it better to take a smaller amount of insurance. All are benefited by getting a permanent insurance for what was uncertain before."

"Under the new law the facts as to every society must now be brought home to all members, and these facts will compel every society to go upon an adequate basis. Ever since 1907 the National Fraternal Congress rate has been the lowest permitted by the Wisconsin law to any society. This means that no society can be organized in or admitted to Wisconsin on any lower rate than those charged by the societies of America. By reason of its long experience with a large membership, it is permitted to make a rate upon its own experience which is even lower than that based on the National Fraternal Congress table."

"The cost of this insurance is not a matter of mortality tables or rates charged, but depends upon the actual deaths in the society. A rating merely means that each member shall pay his real share of that cost. Even as a matter of dollars and cents, members of fraternal societies should continue their insurance, because their rates will be as low as any that can be offered in this state for the same kind of insurance by any permanent society, and because any member changing from one society to another pays something more in the first cost of getting into the society or securing other insurance. Members who think of dropping their insurance will do well to take enough time to study the question before doing anything which may bring regret to both themselves and their families."

RELATION OF WAGES TO EARNING POWER

DR. BEATON TREATS ONE OF FUNDAMENTAL ECONOMIC PROBLEMS IN BERMON.

QUALITIES OF SUCCESS

On Part of Working Man Are Outlined—Workers Urged to Give Value Received for Their Earnings.

Dr. David Beaton in his sermon at the Congregational church last evening treated one of the fundamental economic problems which involves the question of the relation of the employer and employee. His subject was, "A Fair Day's Wage for a Fair Day's Work." He urged better service on the part of the employed and more patience, thoughtfulness and consideration on the part of the employer. In beginning his address he said:

"We have the impression today that a great many of our social and economic problems are entirely new and have arisen out of the complexity of our present day industrial system. But this is a mistake. These problems have always been present, for throughout the prophesies of the Old Testament we have the situation presented again and again that the employer should not keep his hireling's wages over night; that he should be paid daily. It should be understood, however, that we should go to the Bible for information and not with the idea that the situations outlined there should be copied in our modern times."

"This question of labor and wages and some of the more serious problems which it involves, began, perhaps, at the time when the Roman Republic was coming to exist and when slaves were being brought from the conquered peoples to perform the work of the patrician classes. The same problems continued down through the Saxon period when the workers were serfs, and thence down to the present time we have much the same situation to solve."

"There is at least one assurance which we have today. It is indicated in several ways. One of them is that in the history of Great Britain where we have a man in power who has risen from the working classes and who is in sympathy with them. David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, is securing many labor reforms for the working people of England, not the least of them being the insurance laws which have been enacted through his realization of the uncertainty of the tenure of labor. It is known to those men like Lloyd-George that he who has nothing to sell but his daily labor faces a time when his labor is not as valuable as it once was and the question of poverty enters in to be solved in some manner by the government or by the arbitration of the classes affected."

Dr. Beaton commended President Taft for the work which he had accomplished for the laboring classes, and especially the establishment of an industrial commission to look into the multitudinous problems which are pressing in this sphere today. What we need most at the present time is light on this matter and we should get our information from the unbiased and unselfish viewpoint."

"And I regard President Taft, said the speaker, as a far-seeing statesman and he has shown this in his efforts to secure a commission which will deal with labor and the wages which it receives as a matter of justice and not of charity."

"This brings up the question, what are wages? Wages are not paid out of the capital of the concern; they are not a reward of virtue or a gift; but wages are paid out of the product of the industry and until this idea is accepted by capital and labor there can be no adjustment of difficulties."

"One formerly common conception of production was that it arose merely out of the manual work. But actual manual labor is the smallest part of production. There is the labor of the inventor, the manager, and of the salesman, all of which enters into the final product."

The speaker explained that wages are paid as something that has been earned and out of this comes the question how much an earning? This question involves all classes of laborers engaged in production. It is a question for the inventor, the manager, the mechanic, the clerk, the salesman, common laborer. "Am I worth what I am getting?"

Dr. Beaton explained some of the qualities which were necessary for the employee to have in order to attain his maximum efficiency in earning his wages. The first of these, he said, was capacity, or the faculty of knowing how to do one's work. "That is one of the points which the labor unions have to face. And it is a matter in which character is involved. There are the most brilliant men in the world who are not successful because they don't care to work more than four days out of a week. He is not worth as much because he lacks character. And I have seen men trembling at the bench because they had not recovered from last week's drink. How far is a nation justified in taking care of these laborers who have spent half their time in drunkenness and idleness? This is one of the questions which is especially pressing in England and Germany."

"The question of demand was another complex principle which enters into the wages which an employee receives and it is a point which is as much to be understood as one of the inflexible economic laws as the natural laws of gravity."

Another thing which entered into the question, the speaker said, was the character of the worker. It is a problem which is now pressing in the west today. But the matter of small wage is no indication of the amount of work which can be done, and the speaker dismissed the problem of Cripple labor as reaching its solution in its inefficiency.

"The employer must face the fact," he said, "that the working man is not an object of charity. He must not be an object of oppression because he may be more easily imposed upon than the owner of capital. He has only his daily labor to sell and by his circumstances and natural conditions he may be oppressed. Capital is accumulated power and it must be patient with the laboring men which it employs."

"The employer must learn to deal with his power gently, patiently, thoughtfully, and wisely, and there is, however, a worse side of the labor problem than when managers of capital state that there is nothing to arbitrate."

On the other hand the speaker advised the employee to stick to his contract and give his best service and ability to his employer. Honesty and fair dealing between master and man, employer and employee, will gain more ground for either side than any other means.

In closing he expressed the thought that the men who labor are not hirelings, but comrades, and the employer should be as glad to get their service as they are to get the employer's pay. They are all partners in a going concern and whether I am the lowest worker or the head and manager it is my duty to apply myself honestly and sincerely to the work."

SELOIT WOMAN TOLD OF HUSBAND'S DEATH

Notified Her Husband, A Private in the Army, is Dead.

Word has been received by Mrs. Edward Bahler, formerly Miss Bertha Habbitt of Seloit, who has many friends in Janesville, that her husband, who was a soldier stationed at Missoula Barracks, Montana, had been killed. The telegram was from the stepfather of her husband, J. A. Keefe, of Bayfield, Wis. No particulars were given out and no further information has been received by Mrs. Bahler as yet.

Miss Habbitt and Mr. Bahler, then a private in a regiment of United States Infantry located at Missoula, were married last summer while Miss Habbitt was visiting her brother in Livingston. Shortly after their marriage Mrs. Bahler returned an effort to stay with her mother, the widow of the late Congressman Clinton Habbitt. There was an understanding that her husband was to receive an honorable discharge from the army and join her in a few weeks.

It has been said that since that time Mrs. Bahler has heard nothing from her husband, but relatives of the Seloit woman said today that she expected him to arrive in Seloit some time this week.
